Character, in terms of personality, whether good or bad, is living through life experiences and determine what we choose to learn and follow.

Character is about the influence we have on our family, peers, and the public in general. Whether it will help or hurt others, the responsibility of our individuality will send a message to people we encounter.

God made us, and we have to be either careful or careless about what we say, how we say it, what we do, and how we do it. Our actions will determine our destiny from a public view.

Every person lives their life and experience setbacks, disappointments, tragedy, and drama. Some people suffer more than others. On the other hand, the same people may experience success, happiness, triumph, and peace.

Character improvement may increase with knowledge over time, and get better on the decisions we make. Anyone could ask God to help in situations like this, especially believers.

Each mature individual can discipline and instruct themselves to be better just by the obstacles they experience. Identify what changes need to make to benefit from the public perspective, which can result in proven character.
