Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.

What is faith? Faith is creating something into existence. However, faith alone will not be sustained unless the belief is there. This determination (as long as it is something good and right) will develop by the power of God through Jesus Christ, who is the author and finisher of our faith.

Faith begins by moving towards this desire daily. That means whatever passion we have is within our hearts and embedded in our minds. Therefore, the body will be prompt to fulfill what is inside of us until it comes to fruition. It is either we are all in or nothing, no halfway.

For our faith to increase, we not only need to see it into existence but to speak it. To pray to God and say whatever we are expecting will help us to hold faith. We, as believers, must continue to have patience. God's time is the right time, and our time doesn't matter.

Where our faith gets tested lies within our conscience. Do we have a good conscience? Or a bad conscience. Our actions, character, and attitude must be positive. Otherwise, a double-minded approach will make us stagnant.

Faith is the link between God and human desires. Where many people fail to persevere in their faith is when they allow the wisdom of men to spoil it. In 1 Corinthians, verse five of chapter two says, "so that your faith would not rest on the wisdom of men, but on the power of God" (KJV).
