Jealousy. What causes anybody to become jealous? A person may view and predict something or someone that may create insecurity. This uncertainty derives from the perspective of that person, combined with their thoughts and evaluation. The look from the eyes of the beholder is where the troubles start. People attempt to read into a live picture in front of them, think about it, and mislead themselves by their interpretation. The devil convinces jealous people to have this behavior, which leads them to fabricate stories of others. This observation may feel uncomfortable. Why? The jealous one knows, what they see, maybe interpreted wrong. The worst part about jealousy is to anticipate another person's motives without investigating results in conflict. A person who finds themselves in this predicament is often quiet and embarrassed. Are you?

Prayer: Dear God, help me not to be jealous of anyone. Thank you God.
