Nature-----Ezekiel 2:18a

This fallen angel is known as Lucifer.

The deceiver has different names to go with his diverse appearances. Satan uses tactics to entice people to disobey, to commit wrongdoing, to prompt humans to sin. For instance, in the Garden of Eden, Satan disguises himself as a serpent to deceive Eve. Then he twists the words of God and replies it back to her.

The motive for this serpent is to make people sin and live in it. When Satan sees you doing that, he will not bother you. However, if Satan finds you want to come out, he will hinder you again until your back. One of his methods this old snake uses is an accusation. Anything that seems ungodly or borderline to sin, Satan will bring it before God. All this Satan keeps a watch and cannot wait to accuse you to God.

The enticement is another the adversary uses against the believers of God. Especially if the person has weak points that will cause them to fall for the bait.

The most dangerous is when Satan attacks people with bad intentions. He may attack people physically, emotionally, and even mentally. This approach is more harmful than an accusation or temptation because he gets the opportunity to inflict people.

Again, the goal of Satan is to get people to commit sin and stay in it. Satan is very skillful at creating a diversion. The ploy may be lies from rumors, manipulation from a situation, or silent conflict.
