A Believer and a Christian are they both the same thing? Yes. What is the difference? The difference between the title Christian and believer is what the world perceives us, and the latter is how we see each other.

A Believer can recognize one another via the Spirit of God.

A Believer now born of God (spiritually) is no longer enslaved by sin. Still, anyone is capable of falling into sin at any time.

However, the Spirit of God that dwells inside the believer will equip them to resist the temptation to sin. The individual would have to be deliberate or presumptuous to make such a sacrifice.

The eye (which is the mind) of the Believer can be directed by the Holy Spirit via the Word of God or whatever the Lord decides to reveal. The Believer must be careful to obey what God discloses and to know when to share. Our voice is the vehicle of helping others or hurting them. Therefore, if a negative thought would tempt us to say or think bad of another person, the best thing to counter is to pray for them. This attitude includes our enemies too.

The Believer must trust God to allow Him to fight against those evil forces. The fine line for a Believer in this life is that we abide by His Word, find the scriptures to counteract whatever situation we encounter that would threaten our relationship with God, and pray and read daily to build us up spiritually.

Prayer: Almighty God, help to fulfil what you have for me to do in my life. Thank you. Amen.
