God -----1 John 5:20

Understanding is the third attribute after knowledge and wisdom which is the first. Wisdom is the word heard, knowledge is the word received, and understanding is the word used. How do we understand? When we read or hear the information, review it, then see if we can use this data and apply it. God uniquely made humans with the ability to receive messages, process them internally, and establish them externally.

Understanding at times will come with errors. Learning about anything in life will come with misinterpretations from us. There will be situations where we must reassess something we learned and need clarification from others. If we have the opportunity to read data, hear a story, learn from a problem, encounter a debate, listen to a lesson, etcetera, take advantage of it especially if it is free. Understanding is the ability to choose what information we may need and use it to improve our well-being. This benefit comes with being alert by paying attention to our environment. Once we hear something with interest, we must make a mental note or write it down. If we do not comprehend, and the chance to ask questions presents itself, why not? In everything we receive to understand, there is the thought process that comes afterward. Sometimes the message is not always clear. We need to ask God to help make things clear for us to understand. He will give us the answer in His way. For believers, the reply may come from God by word on paper, a picture, by another person. Sometimes to comprehend requires patience, we do not want to rush or force things if it is not gradually coming together. Understanding will motivate us to strive positively and continue to improve on what we have received. Determine to work towards our goal by keeping our eyes and ears open to help us make ourselves better. Persistently asking questions and safely networking with others we encounter for advancement. Understanding is the key out of the three with wisdom and knowledge being the other two. However, only through God, we come to understanding.
